When Life Gives Girl Lemons

Rosy Marret, one of our own, tries her hardest to raise $500 a day. She has been in the lemonade stand business since she was five. Today, now eleven, she adds to her business by making cupcakes, cookies, and different flavors of her signature lemonade.

Classic Lemon, Showering Strawberry, Radical Raspberry, and more! This little girl raised $35,000 in a week when she set up her stand during a beach festival last summer. The wild part is that Marret started out just wanting to buy a pet goldfish!

Middle-Aged Woman Arrested for Stealing 70 Rabbits

Mary was born in North Carolina and had a stable family, but about a month ago Mary got into taking care of rabbits. Her family said they thought it was nice for her to do something she loved, until, on January fifth, rabbits from pet stores went missing with no clues of the culprit. By the end of June, eight rabbits were reported missing. By the twenty-second of September, one of Mary's neighbors found eight rabbits eating out of her garden.

LEGO NEWS

By Dave Boulinarty

A murder was committed on the Helmet Clan airship. Sadly, spaceman Benny was found in the library with a broken neck.

I stowed away on the ship to interrogate the crew. They all denied killing Benny, as he was one of their favorites.

“It happens normally,” said the captain. “We meet in the meeting room and then throw the person off the balcony if they are found guilty. Never did I think Benny was a problem. This is a real shame.”

I was able to walk around the huge ship and get a good look at things. The room I suspected where the murder took place was the lounge, but the Tux Dude said the crime was committed in the hallway. (LEGO people have code names, usually given by their color or what unique outfit they have. His name is “Tux Dude” because he is in a tux).

After two days of investigation, Tux Dude was suspected, charged, and convicted by the captain for killing spaceman Benny in the lounge. Tux Dude was thrown off the balcony never to be seen from again.

But now Rosy has competition. Braydie Carson opened his hot chocolate stand across the street from Rosy! Since the weather is brisker, all the customers are going to Braydie's stand, not hers. Did this stop Rosy's business? No! Rosy has taken it upon herself to make gingerbread cookies and hot chocolate. How long until one of these kids gives up on their business?

RABBITS

"It was the cutest and weirdest thing I ever did see!"

Later that evening, utilizing the neighbor's Ring camera footage, police found Mary carrying two more rabbits into her home. An arrest was made and Mary was then sentenced to a year in jail with community service to follow. Mary had this to say about it:

"I have no regrets for what I did. You only live once, and I just wanted to live with fluffy balls of fur." The rabbits were returned to their owners and Mary is serving eleven more months of jail. The community is making plans to secure their hutches and guard their stores upon Mary's release.

A new section was added to the airship earlier this week, consisting of a kitchen, engine room, cargo bay, and vault. One of the loyal crew said, "I can't believe how big it's got!"

The rest of the ship has rooms like lounge (RIP Benny), admin, cafeteria, meeting room (watch out), and more. - Dave Boulinarty

Champion Ping-Pong Player Reveals Strategies

Cody Mack was able to get an exclusive interview with Ping-Pong champion, Ryder Mack:

Q: Why do you like Ping-Pong?

A: It's fun seeing the different ways the ball moves when you put a spin on the ball with the paddle.

Q: Do you enjoy it more than other sports?

A: Yes.

Q: Do you have any strategies you would like to share with our Readers?

A: Throw the ball up in the air, don't serve right out of the hand. And learn how to put spin on the ball, it will make spikes more consistent.

Q: Do you recommend any gear or specific brand?

A: Kettler for both indoor and outdoor tables, and get paddles with a plastic inside.

We would like to thank Ryder Mack, Ping-Pong champion for this interview. The interview was sponsored by Ping-Pong. "For over a century, Ping-Pong, the original table tennis brand, has set the standard for superior-grade table tennis equipment for all levels of play."

Football in the NSFL

by Winston Hitwater

Just last week Connor Richards threw 46 yards on the Plunkers stadium, scoring a touchdown for the Delvers. Score: 22_24 He was given the key to the city and the Nobel Peace Prize for throwing a 46 yard catch. Sources later said that he did not deserve any prize because, "Tom Brady throws that every week!"

In later news, Dashon Purestalk took Connor to court, claiming that he deserved some of the glory too. Purestalk was rejected by the Court and fined for wasting the Court's time.

John Stakes made two touchdowns in one game, scoring twelve points for the Delvers. Much praise was given by his teammates.

Aiden Opu caught six balls on the Sunday afternoon games and tackled Charlie Bopkins twice. Poor Charlie.

The Delvers stadium has never been so packed before! With 22,000 people in the game to watch Aiden Opu tackle Charlie. Connor Richards did not disappoint, throwing another 46 yards in one play! The Plunkers stadium later said, "We made about $88,000 in one night on hot dogs alone!"

POLITICS

Politics and More Politics

By Smouse Tracy

Erb Stonson, our senator in Ohio, was convicted of robbing a convenience store. The defendant made it clear that he was “just low on cash” and was found guilty on all charges.

“Who is going to be our new senator?!” Bev Stanford exclaimed. A new election was held on Thursday, the twentieth, with contenders Jon Loot and Earl Posbel.

The votes were counted with a 7,654 to 8,906. Earl Posbel had won the election with the people cheering and jumping for joy on the twenty-second of September.

In later news, our president passed a law stating that people should only use cash when buying from a convenience store. The people were quite confused at this, but agreed without conflict.

People flooded the streets in panic as the infamous Don Diego the Third shot three people at the Ryder Grocery. He was soon arrested and sent to trial. Don Diego the Second came to set him free, but could not find him innocent. Don Diego the Third was sent to jail for twenty-three years for manslaughter.

People Stand Against Paw Patrol

By Karen Kutzoo

Posters and signs are crowding the animation studio that created Paw Patrol saying things like:

“Cats aren’t evil!” “Dogs can’t talk!” “Young children can’t drive on the road!”

The animators and producers ignored the sudden dilemma, but fans' hearts were crushed when one sponsor stopped teaming with Paw Patrol, making the process of season three delayed. Will you fight for these furry Paws to stay alive?

Grandma's Bean Dilemma

By Karl Kantankerous

Everyone knows Grandma Edna is always making things with her beloved beans, but today she's out of them! The stores have no beans (supply chain issues, we were told). Edna is flabbergasted at this dilemma. She needs her beans for her famous Baked Bean Brownies. Edna is pleading with the community to, "Please, find more beans!"

Editor's note: We ask our dear Readers to consider donating to Ms. Edna, by dropping off any unwanted (expired, dried, canned, or homegrown) beans on Ms. Edna's stoop. She would be thrilled to receive any variety. "Truly, any variety at all."

Egg Burritos

By Cody Mack

2 plates
 4 mini tortillas
 1 tablespoon of butter
 4 large eggs
 ¼ cup of shredded fiesta blend cheese
 ¼ diced deli ham
 Salt to taste

Put two tortillas on each plate.

Crack eggs into a bowl, mix until yolks are incorporated into whites. Preheat the pan on medium heat with tablespoon of butter. Once the pan is warm and butter is melted, pour eggs into the pan. When eggs are firm, sprinkle salt and add the ham to the eggs. 30 seconds later, stir the eggs, breaking into bite-sized chunks, cooking until no longer wet. Turn off the heat and pour ¼ of the eggs and ham onto each tortilla. Sprinkle cheese evenly across burritos. Add generous amounts of Tapatio, half roll the tortilla, and enjoy!

Makes two servings.

Easy Chicken

By Orson Yeut

One chicken
 One stick of butter
 Two lemons, cut in half
 Salt and pepper
 Italian seasoning
 Thyme

Rub ingredients all over the chicken. Deposit lemon wedges inside.

Roast in the oven at 400 degrees for one hour.!

LOCAL TOWN NEWS & ANNOUNCEMENTS

Pet Update

After Marley Spangle died last week, everyone in the village has been voting for a new animal caretaker. They have tallied the votes and Gail Adamsworth won by 63 points. Now we will see her taking care of our beloved pets while we are working (her camera-to-app system works beautifully so we can spy on Truffles and others as often as we want!). Gail promises to feed, walk, water, and anything else for our furry friends. Mr. Bernard is especially pleased his pug's anal glands will be expressed on the weekly (so are we! Whew!). Thank you, Ms. Adamsworth!

OBITUARIES

Garied D. Opal

We now have a moment to remember Garied D. Opal. He loved making people suffer and that's how we will remember him. His huge lawnmowers he would use at 3 a.m. and his small yapping dogs. We will miss him (sort of) and remember him. Donations can be sent to the local lawn shop in lieu of flowers. The yapping dogs are in need of a home. Please call Gertrude, Garied's estranged sister, if interested: 555-5555

Grandpappie

Grandpappie's funeral was $200,000,000, but it was a beauty! He loved horses, so I bought 50 and gave them away at the funeral. Many people went home thrilled. Some were slightly overwhelmed, "How do I fit this thing in my Maserati?" Grandpappie would have loved the day. That's who he was, bringing joy to many. We will all miss him. I hope he will be remembered for years to come. Thank you all for attending.

Samson Yondoo

Samson Yondoo died too young at the age of ninety-three. He was a great man of virtue, helping the poor, saving puppies, and preaching to anyone who would listen. He is predeceased by his wife, Earlene Whipple Yondoo. A service will be held at the little white church Saturday morning. Bring a piping cup of coffee in hand in remembrance of Mr. Yondoo.

REVIEWS: BOOKS & MOVIES

Miraculous: Tales of Lady Bug and Cat Noir (Movie)

The movie was released earlier this year to the adoring fans. The movie stems from the television series that began in 2015. It is about two teens in high school battling Hawkmoth's villains. With their miraculous powers coming from a ring and earrings, the two teens transform into Ladybug and Cat Noir. Want to find out who wins? Find the movie on Netflix or buy on YouTube.

Little Critter (Book)

With a five-star review, Mercer Mayer's Little Critter books have gone viral online and are flying off the shelves in local bookstores. Are you looking for a great little kids' book? Well, Little Critter has a ton! With fun characters and amazing stories, you won't be disappointed. Find one at your local bookstore or library, while supplies last!

Bob and Jeff Adventures: In the Forest Released (Movie)

To the public in 2023. Ready for a new and improved edition of Bob and Jeff? With new effects, fun slideshows, bloopers, and more, the creators have announced the name and plot of the upcoming season's release.

If you are wondering what any of these juicy details are, look no further!

When Bob and Jeff find that the waters by the forest are draining, they adventure through the rocks and rubble to find something that will save their Lake of Destiny! In this Island Edition Adventure, there will be mud, rucks, and many challenges.
